

Reassessment Policy

Introduction

From time-to-time learners may not reach the required standard to achieve a pass in an element of a course or qualification. Survive and Save Training is committed to providing opportunities for all learners undertaking training courses with us to be reassessed within a reasonable time.

Tutor Assessed Qualifications

- This section of the policy covers all qualifications that are assessed by the programme tutor or other internally appointed assessor. This can cover an entire qualification like the SEQ Level 1 Swimming Assistant (Teaching) or part of a qualification like the SEQ Level 2 in Teaching Swimming
- During the course/programme learners will have been advised of the assessment criteria including when these elements need to be completed and marked. Full details of the assessment criteria will have been given to each learner on the first day of the course.
- Learners who complete assessment tasks and activities during the course but have not achieved a pass initially will receive written feedback and be able to discuss this with their tutor and be able to resubmit work during the course for further assessment. Where the work has still not achieved the required standard at the end of the course the qualification result will be referred and an application for reassessment will be required.
- Where assessment tasks and activities have not been completed within the agreed timeframe it will result in the qualification being referred and an application for reassessment will be required. In these situations, learners may not receive written feedback because of late or no submissions during the course.
- In individual cases revised submission dates may be agreed that are beyond the last date of the course. Where this is the case, the learner must submit the required work to the tutor/assessor for assessment by the agreed date. Where the work reaches the required standard to pass the learner results will be updated and submitted. If the work is referred or not submitted in accordance with the revised deadline the learner will need to apply for reassessment.
- Where practical reassessments are required, the learner will need to provide a suitable venue and participants/classes. Survive and Save Training do not have access to any ongoing classes to be able to complete reassessments.
- Where both theoretical and practical elements require reassessment, all of the theoretical elements must be completed to a pass standard prior to any practical reassessment taking place.
